DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the screwdriver and a screw must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.84(c)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

The use of the term "a screwdriver" in the specification is confusing since the disclosure appears to show a fastening device such as a stapler or a nail gun. Furthermore, there is no specific definition in the specification for the term "screwdriver". While applicant may be his own lexicographer, the use of term for other than its normal and plain meaning requires a specific definition in the specification.

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The word "screwdriver" in the preamble of the claim is vague and indefinite, because in figure 1, the drawing depicts a fastening device rather than a screwdriver.

Art Unit: 3721

Furthermore, it is unclear how would a screwdriver in combination with the safety rod work.

The phrase "the safety switch of a screw" in claim 1 is vague and indefinite; because it is unclear what is the applicant is referring to?

The phrase "to be buckled" is vague and indefinite; because it is unclear what is the applicant is referring to? The word buckle, as commonly understood, depicts something is bent or collapsed under pressure, and there is no bending of the ejecting unit as discloses in the specification.

Claim 1 recites the limitation "the buckling hole" in line 22. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 1 recites the limitation "the valve rod" in lines 22-23. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claim 1 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 1st paragraph and 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
